Agenda

- Describe and navigate search results lists
- Determine the best search to make
- Determine whether a given record is a match
- Perform numeric and keywords searches
- Limit searches with qualifiers
- Perform phrase searches
- Use Searching WorldCat Indexes
- Conduct complex searches in Command Line search

Connexion client search modes

- Interactive
 - Enter searches while online
 - Search results display immediately
 - Can do browses
 - Can do search that results in more than 150 records
- Batch
 - Enter searches while offline
 - Client saves search results to a local save file
 - Can see search results offline

Search methods in Connexion client

- Quick Search

- Command Line

- Keyword/Numeric

A screenshot of the Connexion client interface showing the 'Keyword/Numeric Search' section. The section is titled 'Keyword/Numeric Search' and contains a 'Search for:' label, a 'Retain Search' checkbox, and three search criteria rows. The first row has a search box, a dropdown menu set to 'Title (ti:)', and a '+' button. The second row has a dropdown menu set to 'AND', a search box, a dropdown menu set to 'Name (au:)', and a '+' button. The third row has a dropdown menu set to 'AND', a search box, a dropdown menu set to 'Series (se:)', and a '+' button.

Open Search WorldCat dialog

To open the Search dialog:

- Keyboard: press
- Menu: click Cataloging, then Search, then WorldCat
- Toolbar: click

Choosing the best search

- What information is available?
- Do you have the item in hand?
- Is there a number?
- If there's not a number, what else can you search by?
- Almost always: try a number search first

Basic fields for matching records

- 245 (title statement)
- 250 (edition statement)
- 260 or 264 (publication)
- 300 (physical description)
- 040 $b (language of cataloging)

A significant difference in any of these fields between the item to be cataloged and the bibliographic record means that the record is NOT a match

Complete rules for matching...

For the complete guidelines on matching records to items, see Bibliographic Formats and Standards*, Chapter 4
